1. Introduction

- 1.1 At Equitas Academies Trust, we recognise the challenges faced by employees whose newborns require neonatal care. This policy outlines the provisions for neonatal care leave and pay to support our employees during such critical times.
- 1.2 This procedure does not form part of any employee's contract of employment, and it may be amended at any time.
- 1.3 This policy has been agreed following consultation with staff. It has been adopted by the Trust in May 2026
- 1.4 This policy reflects statutory rights to neonatal care leave and pay introduced from April 2025. Where there is any inconsistency between this policy and applicable legislation, statutory provisions will apply.

2. Scope of the policy

- 2.1 This policy applies exclusively to employees of the Trust. It does not apply to workers, agency workers, contractors, consultants, or self-employed individuals engaged with the Trust.

3. Definition of neonatal care leave

- 3.1 Neonatal care leave is intended to support new parents of infants who require neonatal medical attention which starts within the first 28 days of birth. Under this policy, neonatal care encompasses:
 - 3.1.1 Medical care provided to your child in a hospital setting.
 - 3.1.2 Medical care provided to your child in any other location including:
 - a) Continued medical care post-hospital discharge;
 - b) Care provided under a consultant's direction; and
 - c) Care which involves ongoing monitoring from healthcare professionals under the direction of the hospital in which your child was inpatient.
 - 3.1.3 End of life or palliative care.

4. How neonatal care leave can be taken

- 4.1 There is the option to take neonatal care leave in two different tiers:
 - 4.1.1 The "Tier 1 period" commences when your child begins receiving neonatal care and ends on the seventh day following your child's discharge. If your neonatal care leave is taken during the tier 1 period, it can be taken in one continuous block or in a number of blocks with durations of no less than 1 week at a time.

4.1.2 The “Tier 2 period” is any remaining time during the 68-week period following your child’s birth which does not fall into the tier 1 period. Any neonatal care leave taken in the tier 2 period must be taken in one continuous block.

4.2 You do not need to have taken leave under Tier 1 to be eligible for Tier 2 leave.

5. Notification

5.1 The notice requirements differ depending on whether the period is classified as Tier 1 or Tier 2.

5.1.1 Tier 1

- a) First and foremost, we recognise that this will be a difficult time and so we ask that effort be made to follow these timelines but understand that it may not always be reasonably practical to do so. However, for each week of leave that you wish to take in tier 1, please notify HR by telephone or email, preferably in advance of the week you intend to take the leave. You should notify HR by telephone or email on or before the first day of each week of leave, or as soon as reasonably practicable – I am proposing to amend the latter part of the section to offer flexibility for the employee
- b) You will also be required to complete the Notice of entitlement and intention to take neonatal care leave form which is available at Appendix 3 of this policy or arrangements can be made to send a copy to employees by post or email. There is no expectation to provide this form in order to receive neonatal care leave but we do request that it is sent to us within 28 days of the first day of your neonatal care leave or as soon as reasonably practicable. You are encouraged to complete the Notice of entitlement and intention to take neonatal care leave form; however, failure to do so will not prevent you from taking neonatal care leave. Where reasonably practicable, this should be provided within 28 days of the start of leave – Amend this wording to the highlighted section, for ease of transparency.

5.1.2 Tier 2

- a) If you plan to, or are required to, take neonatal care leave during the tier 2 period, you should give written notice of your intention to take leave. This may be done using the Notice of entitlement form where reasonably practicable. – Amend to the highlighted as a pose to the previous wording, this supports a more digital eco-friendly way of working (less printing) ‘you should give notice of your intent by completing the Notice of entitlement and intention to take neonatal care leave form which is available at Appendix 3 of this policy or arrangements can be made to send a copy to employees by post or email.’
- b) For a single week of neonatal care leave, where possible the form should be submitted at least 15 days before the first date that you have chosen for your leave to start, or as soon as reasonably practical where this timeline is not possible. - should be submitted at least 15 days (for one week) or 28 days (for two or more weeks) before the leave begins, or as soon as reasonably practicable where this is not possible
- c) If you are taking two or more weeks of tier 2 leave, your form should be submitted at least 28 days before the first date that you have chosen for your leave to start, or as soon as reasonably practical where this timeline is not possible.

5.1.3 Late Notice

We recognise this may be a difficult time. Where it is not reasonably practicable to meet the notice requirements, notice should be given as soon as possible. Entitlement to neonatal care leave will not be refused due to a failure to comply with notice requirements.- Add this in because it aligns directly with statutory intent

6. Eligibility for neonatal care leave

6.1 Regardless of length of service, employees may be eligible for neonatal care leave if:

6.1.1 You are the parent of, and have or expect to have responsibility for the upbringing of, the child; or

6.1.2 You are the intended parent under a surrogacy arrangement and have or expect to have responsibility for the upbringing of, the child;

6.1.3 You are the child's adopter or prospective adopter via a UK adoption agency or an adoption from overseas;

6.1.4 You are the partner of any of the above at the date of birth or placement and will share primary responsibility for the upbringing of the child with the above.

6.2 Under this policy, partner is defined as a person of any sex who lives with the mother or prospective adopter in an enduring family relationship but is not their full or half-blood relative.

6.3 Additionally, employees must also meet the following conditions in order to be eligible under this policy:

6.3.1 The child was born on or after 6 April 2025 and received neonatal care within 28 days of birth; and or The child has received neonatal care within 28 days of birth The highlighted wording offers more flexibility and avoids dating the policy

6.3.2 Neonatal care lasted at least seven continuous days (counted from the first full day after the neonatal care started); and

6.3.3 You are taking leave to care for the child; and

6.3.4 Compliance with notice and declaration requirements outlined in this policy. – I'm advising to remove this because its not a lawful condition of eligibility.

7. Entitlement to neonatal care leave

7.1 Eligible employees may take one week of neonatal care leave for each full, uninterrupted week the child is in neonatal care, up to a maximum of 12 weeks. Neonatal care leave is available once a child has received neonatal care for an uninterrupted period of seven days, not counting the day on which the neonatal care starts. Leave must be taken in minimum blocks of one week. The maximum number of weeks remains the same, even if multiple children from the same pregnancy require neonatal care (e.g. twins).

7.2 In adoption cases, neonatal care leave will only be available for each uninterrupted week that the child spends in neonatal care, after the date the child was placed with you or, for adoption from overseas, after the date the child entered the UK.

7.3 Neonatal care leave must be taken within 68 weeks of the child's birth.

7.4 The right to neonatal care leave is in addition to any other statutory leave that you may be entitled to, including maternity, adoption, paternity, ordinary parental, parental bereavement, or shared parental leave (see paragraph 12).

8. Starting your leave

8.1 Your leave will commence on the date that you have specified in your notice, provided that it complies with the notice requirements set out in paragraph 5.

8.2 If you are in work on the same day that you give your notice, your notice will start on the following day.

8.3 If notice requirements were not able to be met, your neonatal care leave will begin on a mutually agreed day. Replace it with - Your neonatal care leave will begin on the date notified by you, or as soon as reasonably practicable where notice requirements could not be met

9. Pay during neonatal care leave

9.1 Statutory neonatal care pay

9.1.1 Eligible employees may receive statutory neonatal care pay (SNCP) as the lower of the rate currently set by the Government for the relevant tax year or 90% of your average weekly earnings (whichever is lower), subject to meeting the following specific conditions:

- a) Entitlement to take neonatal care leave:
- b) 26 weeks' of continuous employment at the end of the relevant week of pregnancy or the week in which you are notified in writing by an adoption agency of having been matched with a child;
- c) Remaining in continuous employment from the end of the relevant week (or from the child's birth if they were born before the relevant week);
- d) Your average weekly earnings exceed the lower earnings limit for national insurance contributions; and
- e) You have completed the required form to provide notice of an entitlement regarding neonatal care leave. - Employees are encouraged to complete the notification form; however, neonatal care leave will not be refused where this is not reasonably practicable – I am proposing to amend the wording to the highlighted wording, because pay eligibility isn't dependent upon whether employees complete the form

9.1.2 Neonatal care pay is treated as earnings and therefore is subject to PAYE and national insurance deductions.

9.2 Enhanced neonatal care pay (optional)

You will continue to be paid your normal rate of pay while taking neonatal care leave provided:

- 9.2.1 Provide a list of your own requirements – inclusive of the above, and any further requirements if applicable

9.2 Enhanced Neonatal Care Pay

For this section, I'm suggesting two options, OPTION A – remove it completely or OPTION B replace it with "The Trust does not currently offer enhanced neonatal care pay. Employees who meet the statutory eligibility criteria will receive Statutory Neonatal Care Pay only."

10. Changing your leave plans

- 10.1 If your intentions change and you need to cancel a period of neonatal care leave which you have already notified the Trust about, you should inform HR as soon as reasonably practicable in writing.

11. Requesting support

- 11.1 Employees struggling due to their child's neonatal care are encouraged to discuss their situation with their line manager or, if necessary, the Headteacher or HR.
- 11.2 We appreciate that these discussions will be difficult, but we encourage openness to ensure that the necessary support can be offered. Discussions will be handled with sensitivity and confidentiality.

12. Other statutory leave

- 12.1 The entitlement to neonatal care leave is in addition to any other statutory leave that you may be entitled to, including maternity, adoption, paternity, ordinary parental, parental bereavement, and shared parental leave.
- 12.2 If you have already commenced a period of statutory leave and then subsequently become eligible for neonatal care leave, or if you become eligible on the day another period of statutory leave starts, you can take your neonatal care leave following the completion of your other period of statutory leave, provided that the neonatal care leave is taken within 68 weeks of the child's birth date.
- 12.3 If you are within the tier 1 period of your neonatal care leave but need to begin another type of statutory leave, your neonatal care leave will pause temporarily immediately before the other statutory leave begins. You can then resume your neonatal care leave in one of two ways:
- 12.3.1 If you are still within tier 1 period, it will resume immediately following the end of the other statutory leave period; or
- 12.3.2 If you have transitioned into the tier 2 period, the remaining balance will be added to the end of the tier 2 period.

- 12.4 Tier 2 leave cannot overlap with any other type of statutory leave if you are aware of this overlap at the time of giving notice.

13. Changes and bereavement

- 13.1 Employees must inform the Trust of any changes in their child's care status. This includes the date that the neonatal care ends. If, after informing the Trust about the end of the care period, care resumes, you must keep your line manager/HR informed of the new start and end dates.
- 13.2 Bereaved employees may still take accrued neonatal care leave and may be eligible for parental bereavement leave under our Special Leave of Absence Policy. If you have suffered a bereavement, please contact your line manager, Headteacher or HR so we can discuss other support that we may be able to offer you.

14. Employee rights and keeping in touch during leave

- 14.1 During neonatal care leave, terms and conditions of your contract, with the exception of normal pay, will continue. Your pay will be replaced with neonatal care pay depending on eligibility. You will continue to accrue holiday entitlement where applicable and receive pension contributions based on their normal pay if receiving paid leave. Employee pension contributions will be based on actual pay that you receive during your period of neonatal care leave.
- 14.2 Reasonable contact may be maintained to discuss leave arrangements and updated on developments at work.

15. Returning to work

- 15.1 Employees are entitled to return to the same job on the same terms and conditions after isolated neonatal care leave. If you return to work after any consecutive periods of statutory leave which exceeded 26 weeks in total, or if you took NCL following a period of ordinary parental leave of at least 4 weeks, a suitable alternative position on no less favourable terms may be offered if returning to the same job is not feasible.

16. Data protection

- 16.1 When managing an employee's leave and pay under this policy, the Trust processes personal data collected in accordance with its Data Protection Policy. Data collected is held securely and accessed by, and disclosed to, individuals only for the purposes of managing the leave and pay. We will comply with the requirements of Data Protection Legislation (being the UK General Data Protection Regulation and Data Protection Act 2018) and any implementing laws, regulations and secondary legislation, as amended or updated from time to time.
- 16.2 Records will be kept in accordance with our Privacy Notice and in line with the requirements of Data Protection Legislation.

17. Review of policy

- 17.1 This policy is reviewed and amended annually by the Trust. We will monitor the application and outcomes of this policy to ensure it is working effectively.

Appendix 1: Examples

Example A:

Sarah started her statutory maternity leave on 1st March following the birth of her child. Her baby required neonatal care for an extended period after birth, making her eligible for neonatal care leave (NCL). Because she was already on maternity leave when she became eligible for NCL, she could not take NCL at the same time. However, Sarah can take her neonatal care leave immediately after her maternity leave ends, as long as this falls within the 68-week period from her child's birth date.

Example B:

David's child was born on Monday 5 May, and he started his statutory paternity leave on the same day, intending to take the full two weeks.

On Thursday 8 May (the third day of his paternity leave), his baby was admitted to the neonatal unit for specialist care. Under neonatal care leave (NCL) eligibility rules, NCL can only begin once the baby has been in neonatal care for seven consecutive full days, counted from the first full day after neonatal care started.

By Thursday 15 May, the baby has been in neonatal care for seven full days, making David eligible for Tier 1 neonatal care leave. However, since NCL can tag along to the end of any current period of statutory leave, David will complete his two-week paternity leave first, ending on Sunday 18 May.

From Monday 19 May, David will begin his neonatal care leave in full, ensuring he has additional time off to support his child while they remain in neonatal care.

Appendix 2: Examples

Examples relating to a mother or primary carer – SMP has been used in the chart below, but examples could also relate to adoption leave.

	Week 1 (birth)	Week 2	Week 3	Week 4	Week 5	Week 6	Week 7	Week 8	Week 9	Week 10	Week 11	Week 12	Week 13	Week 14-52	Week 53	Week 54	Week 55	Week 56+

Example 2	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	Bereavement	Tier 2	Tier 2	Tier 2
Example 3	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	SMP	Tier 2	Tier 2	Tier 2	SHPP	SHPP	SHPP	Work	Work	Work	Work	Work	Work

In all 3 examples, the child has been admitted into neonatal care leave immediately following their birth and spend 3 weeks there before being discharged.

Example 1: The mother is on maternity leave for the full 52 weeks. At the end of her maternity leave, she commences 3 weeks of Tier 2 Neonatal care pay and, if eligible, receives statutory or enhanced pay for that period.

Example 2: In this example, the child very sadly passed away at the end of the third week. In this example, the parent finishes their maternity or adoption leave, then goes onto a period of bereavement leave before commencing 3 weeks of NCL at Tier 2. The leaves occur in this order because the time available for bereavement leave is less than that for NCL, which can be taken up to 68 weeks following the child's birth.

Example 3: The parent has planned to take 6 weeks of maternity or adoption leave, before going back to work for 3 weeks, then taking 3 weeks of Shared Parental Leave, and then returning to work. Instead, they take 3 weeks of NCL, then 3 weeks of SHPP, then return to work.
